1. The high wages paid to dock workers and to the inflated price of materials. The actual harbor charges (taking into consideration the same rate of exchange) have, however, gone up only 15 percent as compared to pre-war prices, while the charges in other harbors have increased at least 30 percent.
2. The high charges asked in the Polish harbors are therefore due to the disproportion between the rate of exchange and the prices asked on the Polish inland market. The director of the Department for Navigation, as well as the representative of the Government in naval matters, engineer Eugen Kwiatkowski, have taken up the matter and are studying these problems.
